Briefs Ordered By Court Appeals

FRANKFORT (UPI) — The state Court of Appeals Monday ordered both sides to file briefs in connection with an appeal filed by U.S. Rep. Noble J. Gregory, Mayfield Democrat.

Gregory appealed the dismissal of his suit challenging the upset victory of Murray druggist Frank Stubblefield in the primary election last May.

Attorneys for Stubblefield Monday filed a motion asking that Gregory's appeal be dismissed on grounds that the papers were not immediately transferred to the high court. The appeal was received Monday only one day before the deadline for filing.

There is some conflict as to the meaning of the word "immediately" in the law, one statute specifying 30 days, but another using only the word "immediately."

The court, which is recessed for the summer, Monday gave attorneys for Gregory 20 days to file briefs supporting claims that Special Circuit Judge Alex Humphrey erred in dismissing Gregory's suit July 7.

Attorneys for Stubblefield were given until Sept. 8, when the high court's fall term begins, to file briefs supporting their motion to dismiss the appeal.

Humphrey dismissed the suit on grounds that it failed to identify alleged illegal voters. Gregory had charged irregularities occurred in voting in Logan, Calloway and Marshall counties. Gregory's attorneys contended that law governing such suits does not allow enough time to gather proof regarding the names of illegal voters.

Teamster Official Turned Into Torch After Testifying

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Teamsters Union official Frank Kierdorf, burned beyond recognition in a savage fire assault by two unknown men Monday, was interviewed for the third time today but his vengeance-seeking uncle, Herman Kierdorf, had disappeared.

Frank, a 56-year-old ex-convict business agent for Teamsters Local 332 in Flint, Mich., still clung to life in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, but doctors said his death was only a matter of time.

He repeated to interviewing officers that he did not know the two men who doused him with an inflammable fluid and set him afire and gave no hint where he thought Herman might be hiding.

Herman disappeared Monday night from under the noses of police guards at the hospital but police admitted only today that they didn't know where he was.

Herman Wants Revenge
They had obtained a warrant charging him with possession of a gun silencer.

The silencer was found in the home of a next door neighbor in Madison Heights, Judy Tyler.

Local Girls Return From Conference

The annual leadership training conference for district officers of the Future Homemakers organization was held at Hardinsburg, Kentucky 21 — August 2. The theme of the conference was "Learn to lead, the FHA way."

During the conference, the officers learned some techniques for group work, developed plans for state and district organizations for the coming year, became more familiar with the job of the officer, and planned ways of helping corresponding chapter officers.

At the closing session of the conference Key Camper awards were presented to girls attending that had shown outstanding qualities of responsibility, attitude, participation, behavior and sportsmanship.

Frankie Jo Clark from the Murray Training Chapter was a recipient of one of these awards. She is secretary of the Paducah district Association of Future Homemakers and also president of her local chapter. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Clark of Ryan Avenue.

Other girls attending from Calloway County were Benita Maddox, State First Vice-president, Murray Training Chapter; Judy McNeely, District recreation leader, Lynn Grove chapter; Peggy Cleaver, District song leader, A. I. M. chapter; Nancy Buzzell, District Parliamentarian, Kirksey chapter; Nina Patton, District treasurer, Hazel chapter.

Chapter advisors from the county who attended the conference were Mrs. Bess Kerlick, Mrs. Mary C. Hull, Mrs. Lucy Lilly, Inez Haile and Nancy Thompson.

Jerry Williams In Offenbach Role

Jerry Williams, a former Murray boy, and now music teacher in Conn. High School, Nashville, Tennessee, will play the role of Don Pedro in Offenbach's opera bouffe "La Perichole."

The production will be given on the auditor stage at Peabody College on Thursday and Friday evenings, August 7 and 8.

Jerry is doing work on his doctorate at Peabody this summer.

Comptroller advisors from the county who attended the conference were Mrs. Bess Kerlick, Mrs. Mary C. Hull, Mrs. Lucy Lilly, Inez Haile and Nancy Thompson.

Little Action Is Seen In Gambling Report On Newport

NEWPORT (UPI) — Assertions by a reporter for The Louisville Times that Newport is one of the nation's biggest gambling centers brought sharp reactions today from local officials, while state officials took the position there was nothing they could do about it.

Times reporter Leonard Lefkowitz wrote in the first of a series Monday that there are "more gamblers per square foot in Newport than Las Vegas, Nev., has in an acre."

He said he found "gambling running wide open in Newport with four major casinos handling more than 20 million dollars a year."

The gist of remarks by Newport and Campbell County officials and by attorneys for alleged gambling interests was that the newspaper should stick to reporting bad conditions in Louisville and Jefferson County, and leave northern Kentucky alone.

Newport City Manager Oscar Hesch said that "Anyone who wants to crusade should do it in their own backyard, not 100 miles away."

Campbell County Sheriff Norbert W. Roll said he thought "conditions here are about the same as they have been for the past 25 or 30 years. I believe they may even have improved somewhat."

Attorney Daniel W. Davies said, "None of my clients are violating the law. Let Louisville and Jefferson County clean up their own backyards before they complain about conditions elsewhere."

Funeral Held Today For Victim Of Automobile Accident

Funeral services for Richard Shackelford who was killed Saturday near Lexington in an automobile accident, were held this morning at 9:00 at St. Leo's Catholic Church with Father Muesed officiating.

A military service was held at the graveside this morning with Major Holmes Ellis, Sr., Sgt. Holmes Ellis, Jr., Sgt. Harry Furehes and Captain Bryant of the local ROTC unit participating. All except Captain Bryant are in the same reserve unit to which Shackelford also belonged.

The 439th Civil Affairs Military Government Company at Fort Meade, Maryland, conducted a memorial service and mass today at the same time that the funeral was in progress here in Murray. Over 100 participated in the ceremony in Maryland.

Young Shackelford, who was only 25, met death Saturday when his car crossed over U.S. Highway 60 near Lexington, crossing the divider strip, then crashed into another car in the other lane.

Fayette County coroner said that an autopsy would be held to determine the exact cause of death, since no reason could be given for his car crossing into the opposite lane.

County Woman Passes Away

Miss Ruby Roger, age 34, died today at 1:15 a.m. at the home of her sister, Mrs. Willard Gordon, RFD 6, Murray.

Miss Roger was born in Graves County, however lived most of her life near Alton, Mo. She had lived in Michigan. She had been in poor health for the past two years.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Gordon with whom she has made her home for the past 8 years. She was a member of the Memorial Baptist Church.

Funeral will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Temple Hill Methodist Church with Bill Sullivan and T. A. Thacker officiating. Burial will be in the Temple Hill Cemetery.

Active pallbearers will be Lowell Walker, Alvin Burton, Cohen Outland, Mike Falwell, Toy Falwell and Print Colson.

Friends may call at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home until the funeral hour.

Court Decision Is Expected Very Soon

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — All seven judges of the 8th U.S. Appeals Court heard an attorney for the Little Rock, Ark., School Board charge desegregation failed at Central High School because the federal government lacks power to enforce integration.

A. F. House, Little Rock attorney for the school board, argued Monday in favor of an order by U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley which postponed integration until 1961 at Central High School.

Attorneys for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, which brought the appeal, opposed the postponement on grounds it would be a "surrender to violence."

It was only the second time in 30 years that the entire seven-member panel of the court sat for hearings in a case. The court's decision, which could have a bearing on the pace of integration throughout the South, is expected to be handed down before school opens next month.

Five Drown Over State Yesterday

By United Press International
Kentucky counted up five deaths by drowning today while the search for three of the victims who disappeared in one boating accident continued at Kentucky Dam.

The Rev. Rufus Owens Jr., 26, pastor of the Kuttawa Baptist Church; his father, Rufus Owens Sr., and his brother-in-law, J. G. Riley, Lakeland, Fla., were drowned when their small aluminum boat capsized in swirling waters below the Kentucky Dam powerhouse Monday morning.

TVA guards at the dam saw the boat overturn, but there was no chance to rescue the men or even to drag for the bodies because of the turbulent waters churned by the dam's big turbines and three spillways which were open. The area is restricted to fishermen, but the men either did not see or ignored the warning signs.

Carolyn Sanders, 10, was drowned just before noon Monday when she stepped into a deep hole while wading in Choe Creek near Pikeville. Two other girls were rescued from the creek and a third managed to climb out of the deep hole by herself.

A Navy veteran, Autie C. Stone, Jr., 23, was drowned Monday afternoon in Slate Creek at Howards Mill, near Mt. Sterling in Montgomery County. His body was recovered several hours later from the pool below the mill dam by firemen from Mt. Sterling.

Construction Begins On New Church Building

Contract Is Let Yesterday To Jimmy Bucy For $77,770

Construction began today on the new educational building of the Memorial Baptist Church.

BULLETIN

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev tonight rejected Western terms for a summit conference and instead demanded an immediate U.N. General Assembly session to order Western troops out of the Middle East.

Cherry Corner Baptist Church Will Hold One Week Revival

The Cherry Corner Baptist Church will hold a revival beginning August 11 and continuing through August 17.

Norman Culpepper, pastor of the Sinking Spring Baptist Church will be the evangelist and Bill Sullivan of the Sugar Creek Baptist Church will be the song leader.

Services will be held at 2:30 and at 7:45 each day. The church bus will run its regular route for each service, a church official said.

The church building is located on Murray route six, R. J. Burpee and the congregation invite every one to attend this revival.

Little Action Reported By City-County Police

Both city and county police report no arrests over the past several days. City Judge Jake Dunn said that the city police have not been called on for aid and a similar report was issued by Sheriff Cohen Stubblefield.

City police are engaged in setting up road blocks over the city to enforce the city sticker ordinance. Judge Dunn said that reports indicate that sticker sales are brisk.

Mrs. Padgett On Tour

Friends of Mrs. Sadie Padgett, a former Murrayan and now living in Atlanta, Ga., received a letter from her stating that she is now touring Europe with a group of teachers. Mrs. Lynn has been teaching in Atlanta, Ga. for several years. She and her husband, Jesse Lynn, also of Murray and their two sons are well known in Murray as this is their former home and they visit here often.

Sadie stated that she and her group are touring Europe and have been through England, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, France and many other countries and also attended the worlds fair.

Rev. T. A. Thacker

The contract for $77,770.00 was let yesterday to Jimmy Bucy, owner of Bucy Building Supplies. Bucy is the local contractor who has just completed the construction of the new school building on South Ninth Street.

Work on the new building is expected to be completed by the latter part of January next year. The building will be of steel and masonry construction. Concrete blocks will be used with brick exterior.

This new educational building will contain Sunday School rooms for the entire Sunday School with the exception of one adult class. Room for 500 persons will be available in the new building.

Three assembly rooms will be part of the new building and also space for three offices and a library will also be prepared. The building will contain four modern nurseries. One nursery will be for small babies and "creepers," and the other three for ages up to three years old. One entrance will be on the west side of the building facing North 10th street and another on the south side, facing Main Street.

As soon as the new building is completed, the large white frame house next to the church will be torn down.

The church building committee consists of Howard McNeely, chairman, Bailey Carter, Mrs. Thyra Crawford, Veris Saderston and Elmer Sholar.

Rev. T. A. Thacker is pastor of the church.

Work is also well underway on the new clinic building, an addition to the present Houston-McDevitt Clinic.

Outside walls are not up as yet, however they are inclosed with a type of insulating board. Another story was added to the new structure which was not at first contemplated.

The new addition, when completed, will more than double the present floor-space of the firm.

The old city hall building which was purchased by Nix Crawford and Margaret Crawford is being remodeled. All of the interior of the lower floor has been cleared of walls and a stairway constructed for the second floor.

An office has been built in the left rear of the building and today concrete is being poured where needed. Western Auto will move into the remodeled structure when it is completed.

The old T. O. Turner home place is being razed by the owner, Leon Collie. It was almost leveled by noon today as the wreckers tore down the old house to salvage what they could. Reports indicate that a parking lot will be placed on the site, however this could not be confirmed.

While this business construction is underway, the building of homes is continuing.

Pirates "Brake" Threatened Runaway Of Milwaukee Braves

By FRED DOWN

United Press International
Those upstart Pittsburgh Pirates have "braked" the Milwaukee Braves' threatened runaway—and there may yet be a pennant race in the National League.

The Pirates, battling to finish in the first division for the first time since 1948, snapped the Braves' six-game winning streak, 4-3, Monday night at a ninth-inning homer by Roberto Clemente. The San Francisco Giants, who beat the Chicago Cubs, 6-4, in an afternoon game, thus moved within four games of the Braves and the Pirates moved up to within six of the world champions.

And so, all the talk of a Milwaukee runaway that started after the Braves' four-game week-end sweep of the Giants, is quieted. The Braves may go on to win another pennant but their opposition hasn't given up yet.

Best in the Majors

The Pirates, now three games ahead of the fourth-place Cubs, have won four straight games and 17 of 26 (a .654 pace) since July 4 when they were in seventh place.

Skinner drove in the Pirates' first three runs Monday night with a two-run single in the first inning and an infield out in the fifth. That produced a 3-3 tie that stood until Clemente's ninth-inning homer gave rookie Curt Raydon his fifth win and Juan Pizarro his first loss since returning from Wichita.

Mays Finally Homers

Raydon, who yielded to a pinch-hitter in the ninth, gave up eight hits and struck out four batters. Elroy Face, the Pirates' 155-pound relief workhorse, pitched a perfect ninth.

Willie Mays showed signs of going off on another "tear" when he hit a homer, double and single and stole a base to spark the Giants' eighth-inning attack. The homer was Willie's 17th and first since July 2. He doubled in the fifth, stole third and scored on Bob Schmidt's single to break a 4-4 tie.

Yanks Widen Lead
Rookie Gene Green hit his eighth homer of the year in the sixth inning to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers and the New York Yankees increased their American League lead to 16 games with a 9-4 win over the Baltimore Orioles in the only other major league activity.

Larry Jackson, one of the Cardinals' "hot-and-cold" pitchers, pitched a five-hitter and struck out 12 as the Redbirds ended their seven-game losing streak.

Ryne Duren, making his first start, pitched a five-hitter and struck out 12 as the Redbirds ended their seven-game losing streak.

Raymond (Sonny) Workman, a member of the National Jockeys Hall of Fame, began hanging around racetracks at the age of 10. At 16, in 1928, he rode his first winner and the next year he was a dazler on Maryland's half mile tracks, being the leading rider at almost every meeting.

Workman moved quickly to the big time and for years was one of turfdom's top stakes riders, scoring frequently with such aces as Equinox and Top Flight. For 13 years he rode for the Whitneys, first H. O. Whitney then C. V. Whitney, and though he never was the national leader he had the respect of horsemen everywhere.

Whatever happened to Sonny Workman? Now 49 and four times a grandfather, he manages extensive real estate holdings in his native Washington, D.C., a position he achieved by investing wisely when he made top money at the tracks.

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO...

Raymond (Sonny) Workman, a member of the National Jockeys Hall of Fame, began hanging around racetracks at the age of 10. At 16, in 1928, he rode his first winner and the next year he was a dazler on Maryland's half mile tracks, being the leading rider at almost every meeting.

NOT BY GUNS ALONE

By E.M. Barker

© 1958, E. M. Barker, published by arrangement with Paul R. Reynolds & Sons, distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 24

THE CLIMB was steep and the horse's hoofs clattered on the loose rocks. Jim Ned pulled him up a moment to let him catch his breath. Woods born and raised, his eyes scanned the deep canyon below him, the thick spruce timber on the other side of the canyon to his left.

The horse suddenly threw up his head and flickered. Jim Ned sat quiet in the saddle, but his hand dropped to the gun at his hip.

Ahead of him the trail edged round a house-sized boulder, its sides sheer and forbidding. He eyed the rough hill on his right. A man afoot, with lots of time, could make the long hard climb up the ridge. There was only one possible horseback way up, and that was to follow the trail. But there was likewise only one way down.

Jim Ned gave his horse a light touch of the spurs, and now he rode with his hand resting on the gun butt. But watchful as he was, when danger came it came from an unexpected direction. He couldn't see the man crouching at the top of the huge boulder, but a small loosened rock suddenly came rolling down the hill above him.

Jim Ned jerked his head up in time to see the small, neat loop of the lasso rope come spinning swiftly through the air. His gun cleared the holster with all of its old deadly speed and ease. He tried to throw himself out of the saddle at the same time he pressed the trigger, but the rope settled over his head and dropped to his shoulders.

There wasn't time for a second shot. He let the pistol fall to the ground to claw frantically at the tightening rope. The man on the boulder was standing now, leaning on the rope. Jim Ned's horse jumped sideways as another small rock spun off the hill and hit him in the side.

Jim Ned had his hand on the rope, but the horse's rear end hit him out of the saddle. He half-way landed on his feet, stumbled, then the rope yanked him against the rocky hillside. His head hit hard as he went down.

He was out only for seconds, but when he opened his eyes again the rope was a tight pressure around his breast, his arms were pinned to his sides, and Tony Miller was standing over him, his lips drawn back from his pre-trading teeth in a triumphant grin.

He was breathing hard, his cheeks were dusty and torn from his quick slide down the hillside.

He was holding one end of the rope in one hand, his gun was in the other. One finger was missing from the gun hand, and blood dripped steadily on the ground. "So I was right," said Jim Ned quietly. "It's you and Wymen."

Tony didn't answer. Jim Ned half raised a hand, and Tony gave the rope a tightening yank. In Jim Ned's old eyes was an awareness that death was close, but there was no fear. He even grinned a little, looking at Tony's bloody hand.

"I used to be mighty proud of my shooting. Looks like I haven't quite lost the knack. By the way—Mrs. Kilgore knows where I am today."

Tony still didn't have his breath. He spoke between-puffs. "Talk on—old man! I won't get you out of this!"

"Go ahead and shoot then—if you've got the guts! I promise you—you'll hang for it!"

Tony's lips drew back in the way that was half grin and half snarl. He didn't shoot. Instead he stooped quickly, raised the gun and cracked the metal barrel round on Jim Ned's skull.

The turn off trail had not been used in years and was barely discernible to a sharp eye, but Martha found it. Over on the next ridge, out of the shade of the tall walls of Escabrosa Canyon, the air was still and the sun warmed quickly through her chilled muscles.

She found a grassy spot for her horse, dropped the reins and left him to graze as she had seen Hud and Jim Ned do.

She ate a sandwich from the bulging bag on her saddle, found a spring down in a little cove and drank deeply of the clear, cold water. Then she climbed back up on the hillside, selected a grassy spot out of the wind and not too alighting for comfort, and sat down to wait for Jim Ned. She thought once she heard the sound of a shot from the direction whence the old foreman had gone, and it made her uneasy for a few minutes until she remembered that Jim Ned had said they were to shoot any bulls they could not round up any other way.

Martha had not realized she was tired, but now the warmth of the sun made her feel pleasantly lazy. She lay back upon the grass, shaded her face with her hat and soon was sound asleep. She dreamed that it was thundering, a long, ominous sustained thunder that somehow frightened her. Then the sound seemed to change and was suddenly the noise of a freight train bearing down on her while she was powerless to get out of the way.

She awoke and lay still for a minute, drowsily unable quite to disassociate the dream from reality. Then fear wrapped itself round her heart as she realized that the noise that had penetrated her slumber was real and it was coming closer—the same muzzling, ominous uh-uh-uh-uh she had heard before.

She sat up abruptly. At her movement the roan bull, two dozen yards away, stopped. He stared at her for a moment, threw up his nose and bellowed an angry defiance at the sky, the trees, and the world in general. Then he lowered his nose, snuffed windily, pawed once at the ground, and came slowly on.

Martha jumped to her feet. She waved her hat wildly in her hand, and the movement brought the bull momentarily to a stop again. Martha threw a wild glance around for her horse, but she had left him down by the spring, and he was nowhere in sight now.

She didn't know anything about the habits of bulls now realize that this one had quite recently been fighting and was in an evil humor because he had been whipped. Her pistol came suddenly out of the holster at her hip. She knew how to use the little .32 but the hand that held it was suddenly not very steady. His hide looked plenty tough. She held for the middle of his forehead, but her hand wobbled a fraction as she pulled the trigger.

The bullet must have grazed the base of a horn, for she saw the bull's powerful head jerk sideways. He stumbled, and for a second it looked as if he was down. Then with a heart-congrating, defiant bellow, he regained his balance and came on again.

A frightened sob burst from the girl's throat as she turned and sprinted for the nearest tree downhill, in her terror dropping her gun as she ran. The tree was not a large one, and for that she was momentarily grateful, for she could never have reached its lower limbs and clambered up out of reach of the bull's powerful horns in time if it had been.

As it was, she yanked her legs up out of reach just as one of the bull's heavy hooves sideways the tree. The tree swayed from the impact, so that the girl had to cling fiercely to keep from falling.

While Martha is up a tree, Jim Ned Wheeler is in a worse situation. Continue this story of action and suspense here on Monday.

Tests On Twins Proves New Facts

By DELOS SMITH
 UPI Science Editor
 NEW YORK (UPI)—A world-famous scientist studied tests on 82 pairs of identical twins to check out his belief that some persons are chemically set up before birth both to smoke cigarettes and to die of lung cancer.

Of the 51 pairs of identical one-egg twins among them, 33 pairs were alike as to their smoking habits. Nine pairs didn't smoke, 22 pairs smoked cigarettes and two pairs smoked cigars.

Only 12 pairs, less than a quarter of the 51, were different in their smoking habits, such as one twin not smoking while the other smokes, or one smoking cigarettes while the other smoked cigars.

But of the 31 pairs of "fraternal" or two-eggs twins among the 82, only 11 pairs were alike as to smoking habits while 16 were distinctly different. Thus a difference was shown between identical and "fraternal" twins—a difference regarded statistically as highly "significant."

The statistics were used by Sir Ronald A. Fisher, professor of genetics at Cambridge University who is widely known as the "father of modern statistics." He was seeking information as a guide in the continuing scientific argument over the meaning of the large statistical studies which connect cigarette smoking with deaths from lung cancer.

Some statistical studies have been accepted by official public health bodies both in the United States and abroad as showing that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer. But Dr. Fisher and several other well-known scientists argue that they only show a "statistical association" and "cause" is not at all demonstrated.

In common with all other geneticists, Sir Ronald loves identical twins because they stem from one fertilized egg and so share the same heredity in the minutest detail. Whatever can be proved about the influence of their heredity on the physical, chemical, and emotional makeup of people, is provable through one-egg twins.

That it is possible to inherit a susceptibility to cancer—even cancer in specific places such as the lungs or the stomach—is generally accepted in science on the basis of factual evidence, some of it coming from identical twins.

But this is the first time studies of identical twins have suggested that susceptibility to the smoking habit, even down to the detail of whether cigarettes, cigars or pipes are smoked, may be established in the mother's womb by the transmitted totals of its ancestors' chemistry.

In common with all other geneticists, Sir Ronald loves identical twins because they stem from one fertilized egg and so share the same heredity in the minutest detail. Some statistical studies have been accepted by official public health bodies both in the United States and abroad as showing that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer. But Dr. Fisher and several other well-known scientists argue that they only show a "statistical association" and "cause" is not at all demonstrated.

Telephone Talk

by F. H. RIDDLE
 Your Telephone Manager

HAD YOUR "TALKIE" BREAK this morning? It's mighty good with that second cup of coffee. A leisurely phone call, and you can catch up on the news... swap recipes... enjoy the kind of friendly, unhurried visit that makes phoning the fun-time of the morning. And anytime you need it, your telephone is there. It helps with your errands... keeps you in touch... assures you of immediate help when emergencies arise. So when it's time for a few minutes of leisure, enjoy them with a friend. Have a "talkie" break—by phone!

while you're away, remember to keep in touch with the folks at home. A Long Distance call can reassure them... add peace of mind to your trip. Costs so little, too. For bargain rates call after six and all day Sunday. Save even more by calling Station-to-Station.

GOOD NEWS AHEAD: In spite of a general economic downturn of business beginning about the middle of 1957, Southern Bell is going ahead in 1958 with a big construction program—about $250 million. The entire Bell System is spending $2 billion 200 million on new construction in '58. The modernization plans under way will continue at a normal rate... research and development will be stepped up... more engineers will be trained in new arts of communications. This is good news for all of us. For, by going ahead with "business as usual" your Telephone Company will have a share in bolstering the well-being of our nation's economy, and each of us will benefit from the progress constantly being made in the operation of Southern Bell's extensive program.

Future Homemakers At Kirksey Make Plans For Year

The Kirksey Future Homemakers of America met recently in the home of Annette Jones to discuss each officer's duty for the coming year.

Nine officers were present. Annette Jones, first vice president; Nancy Buzzell, second vice president; Darriyn Treas; secretary; Bettie Smith; treasurer; Donna Cecil; reporter; Eva Mae McCallum; parliamentarian; Sandra Bedwell; historian; Stella Adams; and song leader, Janet Lake.

Mrs. Oren Hull was present to help explain each officer's duty. Mrs. Preston Adams, a chapter "mother," attended to assist with the planning.

During the business sessions, plans were made for the chapter to purchase 25 "The Meeting Will Come To Order" books, ten "Official Guide" books, a secretary and treasurer's book, FHA scrapbooks and a felt FHA emblem. A new gavel was purchased. Money making projects were discussed.

The new and old officers planned an over-night outing at Kentucky Lake. The outing will be for officers to plan the program of work for the coming year. The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

Teamsters...

ings in Washington today with James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, as the chief witness.

Got Jobs From Hoffa
According to committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, Kierdorf got his job with the Teamsters Union from Hoffa, as did his uncle, Herman Kierdorf, another Teamsters official.

Only last week Herman Kierdorf had been before the Senate committee and, like his nephew, had invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions. Before going to Washington, Herman had quit his job as business agent for Teamsters Joint Council 43 in Detroit.

Herman received an anonymous telephone call Monday threatening him. "You're next," shortly after Frank Kierdorf had arrived, terribly burned, at the hospital.

When first questioned at the hospital, Frank refused even to tell his name. Even after Herman and his son, Frank Jr., 30, arrived and identified him, he refused to admit his name.

Authorities had determined his identity through prints taken from his fingerprints. The age were about the only parts of his body that weren't burned, apparently because he had clenched his fists after being set afire.

Breaks Long Silence
All through Monday Kierdorf alternately rose from semi-consciousness and sank back but grimly refused to tell what had happened.

Finally, after 15 hours of silence, he made a statement in the presence of Ziem, Assistant Prosecutor George Taylor and the two Senate committee investigators—Walker Hansen and Sherman Willes. The statement was tape recorded and transmitted to committee officials in Washington.

Shortly after midnight this morning, Kierdorf's wife, Mrs. Jessie Kierdorf, arrived at her husband's bedside. She had flown here from Florida. She told United Press International she had no idea who burned her husband and that he never told her anything about his business.
